The Tabernacle Choir Seeks New Managing Director

SALT LAKE CITY — The Tabernacle Choir at Temple Square is looking for a Managing Director to oversee the organization as part of a new administrative structure. The creation of the new position is just the latest in a series of structural changes that started in August 2021 when President Michael O. Leavitt and his counselors, L. Whitney Clayton, and Gary B. Porter, were called to lead the Choir as a presidency—a first for the Choir. With that new organizational structure, the Choir presidency serves at the executive council level and reports to Bishop Gérald Caussé, Presiding Bishop of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The new Managing Director position will enable the Choir to work more effectively with senior leaders in other Church departments to usher in the bold new initiatives that were announced by President Leavitt and his counselors in February 2022. Those initiatives include aligning the Choir with the Church’s mission and missionary efforts, expanding the Choir’s digital audience, and increasing its worldwide visibility.

“In making these organizational changes, we recognize that we are building on a strong foundation set by those who have served the Choir so diligently in the past, and who are doing so now,” said Leavitt, “We are preparing for a future where we can fulfill a prophetic charge to accomplish things the Choir has never done before.”

The new Managing Director will work under the under the direction of the Presidency of The Tabernacle Choir to supervise the production, performances, marketing, and research for the Choir. The new leader will provide general management to both staff and volunteers and oversee the Orchestra at Temple Square, the Chorale at Temple Square, and the Bells at Temple Square.

Those applying for the position should have a passion for music and an understanding of musical organizations. A Master’s Degree or equivalent is required with an emphasis in business, music, international relations, and logistics. Applicants must have 15 years or more in progressive management positions with at least 5 years of senior level management experience.

The Choir is also looking for those with proven leadership and management capability, excellent written and verbal communication abilities, demonstrated abilities in maintaining positive relations with staff and department-level peers, and working cooperatively with Church leaders, volunteers, and the community.
